

COFFEE CONVERSATIONS

with
ELIAS MAKHUBO

TOPIC: 6 DEGREES OF SEPARATION AND NETWORKING

6 degrees of separation describes the idea that we are all connected to one another in six or fewer steps. Come and explore this interesting concept with Elias over a cup of coffee, and share some ideas on how to use your connections to build powerful networks.

Refuel with a jolt of FREE FILTER COFFEE AND BUY A MUFFIN OR CROISSANT to enjoy while you engage in a discussion about the importance of networking.

-  Date | Wednesday, 8 February

Elias Makhubo is the founder of Black star coffee bar which serves delicious coffee made from exceptional coffee beans sourced from the African continent. Besides the coffee business, Makhubo owns a construction company and an interior decorating firm with a number of associates. The businessman describes himself as a risk-taker. He's a qualified engineer and worked in the mining industry for many years. He then went back to study and pursued a career in brand management and became the brand manager for one of the leading watch manufacturers. He later studied again and found himself in the financial industry and in construction and now he is a coffee connoisseur.
